Part One: Reading Comprehension

Directions: Questions (1-10) are based on the following reading passage. Read the text carefully and answer the questions according to the information therein. Each question has four choices, A-D. Choose the best alternative and write the letter of your choice on the separate answer sheet provided.

There is a fairly universal sentiment that the use of nuclear weapon is clearly contrary to morality and that its production probably so, does not go far enough. These activities are not only opposed to morality but also to law and if the legal objection can be added to the moral, the argument against the use and the manufacture of these weapons will considerably be enforced. Now the times is ripe to evaluate the responsibility of scientists who knowingly use their expertise for the construction of such weapons which have deleterious effect on mankind.

To this must be added the fact that more than 50% of the skilled scientific man power in the world is now engaged in the armament industry. How appropriate it is that all this valuable skill should be devoted to the manufacture of weapons of death in a world of poverty is a question that must touch the scientific conscience.

A meeting of biologists on the Long Term World Wide Biological consequences of Nuclear War added frightening dimensions to those forecasts. Its report suggested that the long biological effects resulting from climatic changes may at least be as serious as the immediate ones.

Sub-freezing temperatures, low light levels, and high dose of ionizing and ultraviolet radiation extending for many months after a large scale nuclear war could destroy the biological support systems of civilization at least in the Northern Hemisphere. Productivity in natural and agricultural ecosystems could be severely restricted for a year or more. Post war survivors would face starvation as well as freezing conditions in the dark and be exposed to near lethal dose of radiation. If, as now seems possible, the Southern Hemisphere were affected also, global disruption of the biosphere could ensue. In any event, there would be severe consequences, even in the areas not affected directly, because of the interdependence of the world economy. In either case the extinction of a large fraction of the earth's animals, plants, and micro-organism seems possible. The Population size of Homo Sapiens conceivably reduced to prehistoric levels or below, and extinction of the human species itself cannot be excluded.
